Postmaster describes different types of mail

Registered, Insured or Certified; What They Can Do For Your Mail

By Postmaster O.S. McCoy

When you need to send valuables or important papers through the mail, the Postal Service recommends you understand what registered, insured and certified mail can do for you.

By becoming familiar with these service options offered by the Postal Service, your mail will receive the best handling and the most cost-effective delivery. Registered, insured and certified all give you the customized services needed for mailing that special letter or package.

Registered mail is the safest way to send valuables. It offers special handling for your letter or package mailed at the First-Class rates. You receive a receipt when you take the material to the post office. Then, the movement of that piece is monitored from the point of acceptance to delivery. All irreplaceable articles, regardless of value, and all items worth more than $400, should be sent by registered mail.

Jewelry, stocks and checks or money orders for large amounts are good candidates for registered mail. This type of service provides protection against loss or damage. The full value of the mailing must be declared when mailed for security and insurance purposes. The registration fee includes insurance protection up to $25,000 for domestic mail.

The fees for registered mail depend upon the value of the material being mailed. For instance, if the value of the package is from $101 to $500, the cost is $3.60.

Restricted delivery service is also available with registered mail. It allows delivery only to the addressee, or to someone who is authorized in writing to receive mail for the addressee.

Insured mail is a good bet if you are sending birthday, wedding or other gifts or fragile items. First-Class Mail, Priority, Third and Fourth-Class mail may be insured. Insurance, available for merchandise only, can be purchased for materials mailed which are valued at less thatn $400. Insurance rates, like registered mail rates, vary according to the value of the material being sent. If articles are insured for more than $15, a receipt of delivery is signed by the recipient and filed at the delivery post office. The insurance enables you to receive payment for domestic mail that has been lost, rifled or damaged. You may request a return receipt or restricted delivery when sending something insured for more than $15.

Certified mail is your best buy if you are sending important letters, insurance, forms, contracts or bids for business contracts mailed at the First-Class rate. At 75 cents plus the charge for postage, certified mail costs less than registered mail. when the sender requires a receipt as proof of mailing. The coupon receipt is postmarked to establish the date of delivery. A record of the delivery is also kept at the addressee's post office for two years, but no record is kept at the office from which you mailed the material. You may request a return receipt or restricted delivery with certified mail.

Certified mail service is provided only for First-Class or Priority Mail containing no intrinsic value, and insurance is not available.

Certified mail labels, which can be obtained from your local post office, must be completed by the customer for this type of mail.
